Guest Lecture Report on Mr. Padmanabh Subramanian's session.

On 10th October 2021, Mr Padmanabh Subramanian, an alumnus of Batch 2009 – 2011, working with GBCI India as the Regional Head – Market Development delivered a guest lecture on “LEED Approach Towards Sustainability and Opportunities” for the MBA - E&E Batches of 2020 – 2022 & 2021 – 2023.

In the session, he shared deep insights into LEED certification, its concept, evolution, various aspects and versions. LEED zero concept, Arc platform for performance analysis, LEED for Indian cities and communities, how LEED certification helps in ESG reporting and achieving sustainability goals, adaptations by LEED Certification for post Covid situations were the major areas of discussion. The session helped students to get a better understanding about importance and benefits of certifications associated with construction and maintenance of buildings, processes regarding the same, and how it leads to sustainable development.

Students asked questions based on how existing buildings could achieve LEED certification, and how employee productivity can be increased with LEED Certification. Mr. Padmanabh Subramanian was happy to reconnect with his Alma Mater and deliver the session for the students.
